To avoid international data charges on your iPhone, go to Settings, click on Cellular. Turn Cellular Data off (tap on/off switch to turn it from green to gray). Ensure Data roaming is off (switch is gray not green). It should be off by default. At this point your phone will work like a dumb phone (voice and messages only). Buy an Italian SIM card, install it, and turn cellular data on again. You should now have use of phone and data again as if you were home.

When calling Italy from within Italy, leave off the 39. Dial the entire number, including the initial zero.

When calling US from within Italy, use Skype. Dial +1 then the 10-digit phone number.
